

Now Published CPM in Construction Management Addendum to 8th and Interim 9th Edition

Why an “interim 9th” and “addendum to 8th” rather than publishing a new full 9th Edition is a matter of the economics of the publishing industry, and current reorganization of and within McGraw-Hill. The Authors of the 8th Edition, James O’Brien and Fredric Plotnick, met and spoke often in the years since publication of the 8th Edition in 2016, with many discussions upon what should be considered for a 9th Edition slated for 2021. The realities of publishing since 2016 and Jim’s passing in 2020 have placed much in limbo, and so this Addendum is now needed to avoid further delay. After all – a new Edition for a book on CPM in Construction Management should accept no delay. Introductory Pricing for our Online PDF edition is only $20

Construction CPM Conference

Virtual Now and to Return to LIVE Events in January 2023

Construction CPM Conference 2022 is UP and running with both new and reposted content. Click to http://constructioncpm.com/At-A-Glance/at\_a\_glance2022.htm to see what is currently displayed. We have six “tracks” of content filling fast with basic to advanced theory, “how to” tutorials on multiple softwares for both CPM and other forms of scheduling, and the legal aspects of use of these tools. ALL ARE VIEWABLE FOR FREE to our current and past Attendees and your sponsoring employers.

For more detail on CCC22, please continue to Page Two of this Newsletter.

We continue to actively solicit your knowledge to share with colleagues.

Please share your Abstract for our review. We prefer a presentation of 50 to 75 minutes, but can support those shorter or longer. We are looking for lectures on theory of CPM or related to CPM involving Risk, BIM, Cost, and AI. We are looking for instruction on software focusing upon “how to use” rather than “what it does.” We are looking for teaching of the use of our skills for purposes of building the project and beyond to documentation and legal aspects. Those selected will be asked to provide voice-over presentations (preferred in an MP4 file format,) and availability for Zoom-style Q&A.

We are also publishing “Oldie but Goodies” from the past including Keynote Addresses all the way back to that by Dick Faris in 2012, Great Debates, Best of James J. O’Brien, and Mock Trials. We even are sharing video of our live Jazz Club featuring Charmaine Neville. So tune in now to view content currently posted, and return from time to time to view new material provided as YOU share.

For those who attend a conference to obtain continuing education credit, we also have you covered in our Construction CPM Conference way of providing more for less. Authors and Presenters of content are asked to provide three Challenge Questions which “prove” Attendee are indeed viewing the presentation. These may be technical in nature but often are simply showing “being awake” by queries about the Presenter’s favorite color or other non-technical comment made. Properly answering the Questions generates a Certificate and email which may be used by PMI, ASCE, and most model states for PE Professional Engineering license PDH. For our Attorney-Attendees, we are again pursuing accreditation of credits by the Florida and other Bars. Typical pricing is $5 per PDH which is then donated to the Philadelphia Chapter of the Pennsylvania Society of Professional Engineers. Non-Conference courses also are available in many fields of engineering. Go to <http://pspe-philly.org/MCECourses/BuyNow-1.htm> for new and old lectures by the like of Jim Zack, Chris Carson, Glen Palmer, David Long, Saleh Mubarak and others. Presenters may usually claim double credit.
